PRESENTING A MAGAZINE THAT WILL OPEN THE DOORS TO A WHOLE NEW WORLD FOR YOUR CHILD...

"There are many ways, besides the formal curriculum and the methods of the classroom, in which schools can develop a spirit of self-confidence in every child, get him to take greater ownership over his learning and get him to aspire..."

Mr. Tharman Shanmugaratnam,
Acting Minister for Education

"I am confident that Quest will be able to play an important role in helping to develop creative and innovative children beyond the confines of the school curriculum..."

Dr. Vivian Balakrishnan,
Minister of State for National Devt. & Trade and Industry

"Quest represents STU's sincere efforts to respond to the call by the Acting Education Minister to stimulate creative thinking in our young children, beyond the confines of the school curriculum."

STU aims to make Quest very affordable because we really want every child to benefit from the wealth of knowledge that Quest provides..."

Mr. Swithun Lowe,
General Secretary, STU

Dear Parent(s),

We invite you to give your children the greatest gift of them all – the gift of reading and lifelong learning. According to recent surveys, our children spend too much time watching TV, which is why they have very little time to read and expand their minds. It is a proven fact that children learn better and faster through non-academic material and games, which also help them develop a well-rounded personality. As parents and teachers, we need to find ways for them to learn and read without becoming bored too easily. One good way to do this would be to subscribe to Quest, the magazine of the Singapore Teachers' Union, which is dedicated to helping children in Singapore inculcate the reading habit.

The contents of the magazine subtly reinforce our moral and family values, culture and tradition. They are designed to nurture the child's imagination and make him concerned about the world around him. Written and illustrated by internationally acclaimed children's authors and illustrators, the information, facts, humour and entertainment in Quest will excite a child's curious and inquisitive mind, while the puzzles, crosswords, quizzes and activities will kindle his creativity and talents.

So, dear parent, let the quest for knowledge and creativity begin right here. Get your children started on a mind-expanding journey into the world of Quest – where finding out is fun.

We urge you to fill out the subscription form below and have your child submit the form and the payment to his school teacher. If you prefer to have the magazine delivered at home, please send the form to our address given below.

Subscribe to Quest and give your child his most priceless gift yet!

Thank You,

Swithun Lowe,
General Secretary, Singapore Teachers' Union
